1974 will be remembered as the Year of the Woman. Meredith College, as a woman's college, is vitally aware of its role in our changing society; and its students are aware of what factors influence their lives—and of what it means to be a woman. Quotations were gathered from questionnaires distributed to the Meredith Community.

The family should serve as a haven of security, understanding, and acceptance, as well as providing companionship and love.

Erika Fairchild, Faculty
They're the first ones to praise you and the first ones to admonish you but then again they always come first.

Barbara Longest, Senior

They're my friends now, not just my parents. As I grow more independent of them I appreciate them more.

Leza Wainwright, Junior
I miss my mommy!

Phyllis Burnett, Freshman
I now see them more as individuals with their own needs rather than as Mom or Dad.

Family

Valerie Glenn, Junior

They're the ones who stick by me no matter what, the love they give to me and that which I can give back to them are the things which I value highest.

Frances Cate, Sophomore

What would my mother say!

Cynthia Baugham, Junior

Friends

There is always a need to relate and to have friends you can love and care about—this relationship is important.

Frances Cate, Sophomore
I wish I had more close friends. I have made many friends here but no best friends.

Anonymous
If it wasn't possible to make new friends, college would be a much less meaningful experience.

JoAnn Williford, junior

Friends

Here I have found one of life's richest blessings. Friends have encouraged and criticized, shared and stimulated many of my happiest experiences. Friends made during college years have proved to be among my closest and most lasting ones.

Norma Rose, Faculty

Friends are for giving, sharing and loving,
Anonymous

My personal relationships with my student friends give me a feeling of being a model of womanhood. Moreover, I feel, perhaps for the first time, a loving identity with women as a group.

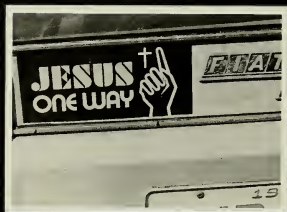

Marita Kennihan, Faculty

They aren't only restricted to classmates here—some of your best friends can be faculty that care.

Sherri McGee, Junior

Religion

I couldn't get through any of this mess without my faith in Christ.

Michele Lee, Junior

Having the security and warmth of always having someone to watch out for you, even when you don't.

Barbara Longest, Senior

Its my source of strength; my relationship with God has to come first if everything else is to fail in its proper perspective.

Frances Cate, Sophomore

I think that religion has become more personalized since I've gotten to school—it has become more of a close, less formal relationship.

Anonymous

My religious life helps me to keep everything else in focus.

Cynthia Baugham, Juniors

Dating

Meredith has the best possible set-up for tripping guys and dropping handkerchiefs!

Jane Hartley, Junior

I gave up dating when I got married!

Erika Fairchild, Faculty

I think there is too much emphasis put on dating here at Meredith. If you aren't dating, you feel like a nobody.

Tina Mayo, Junior

Being able to reach out beyond oneself to the one person that makes your life brighter and making his that way too.

Barbara Longest, Senior

Dating

Dating is a way of encountering your future.

Anonymous

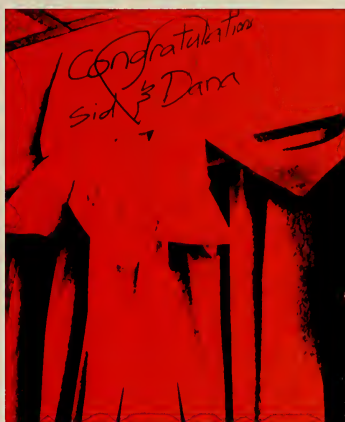

Without contact from time to time with the opposite sex I would be so depressed this place would crive me crazy!

Valerie Glenn, Junior
Meredith students appear to put dating at the top of the list and get it out of perspective. It is vitally important, but many students put it ahead of family, school, and religion.

Robert Fracker, Faculty
Dating is a nice escape from the agony of studying.

Sue Grant, Junior

Meredith has helped me to realize who I am, to be myself, not someone's conception of me.

Leza Wainwright, Junior

Nothing is more exhilarating to me than a student who gains more from a work of art than I am able to give her. I only show her the way.

Marita Kennihan, Faculty

When I came to college I finally learned what it was to really enjoy learning. I really don't think I ever really enjoyed it before.

School

I look up "school" as one of the greatest privileges that life has afforded me both as it has prepared me to be of greater service to mankind than I could have been without the experience and as it has opened up for me many avenues of personal satisfaction and enjoyment that otherwise I would never have known.

Norma Rose, Faculty

It's frequently frantic!

Penny Benson, Junior

School

I believe strongly in the sense of empowerment and fulfillment which comes with expanding one's horizons and knowledge. This is the function of college.

Erika Fairchild, Faculty

School is the stopping off place before we journey off into the future to conquer the world in our own way.

Barbara Longest, Senior

School

Most important, but some people don't seem to realize that that's why we're here.

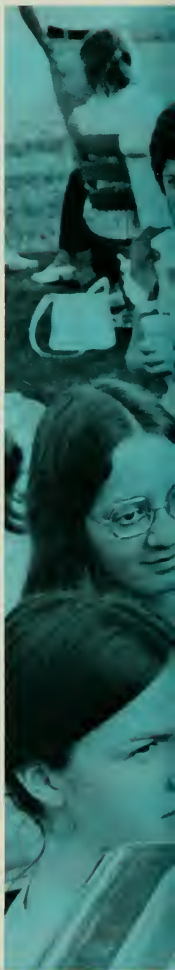

Shelly Williams, Junior

I love this place—even though it has its faults it gives me a chance to be me.

Sherri McGee, Junior

I have learned at Meredith that a "well-rounded" education is more important than knocking myself out to make the Dean's List.

Becky Thomas, Junior

National Situation

I feel like I'm in a sort of utopia, a completely separate community apart from the reality of world crises.

Cecilee Banks, Freshman

The world you have to live in always effects you.

Anonymous

It's a mess! But we can make it better!

Sue Grant, Junior

It is extremely important for an educated woman to be aware and somewhat knowledgeable about this.

Michele Lee, Junior

Rotten!!

Erika Fairchild, Faculty

To be a Woman . . .

To be a woman is to be a human being, to be capable of reproduction, creativity, and productivity.

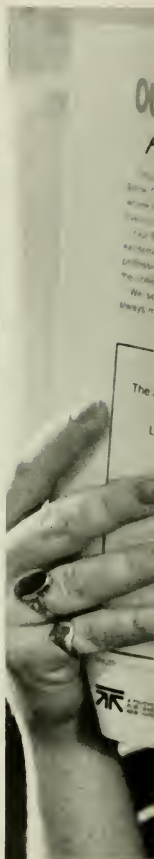

Marita Kennihan, Faculty

To me, the change from adolescence to womanhood has helped me face the future and helped me to decide what I want from life.

Ann Darden, Junior

In today's world being a woman gives one a great sense of excitement for the challenging opportunities to develop one's potential!

Evelyn Simmons, Faculty

OUR BODIES OURSELVES

BY AND FOR WOMEN

To be a woman . . .

To be a woman is to be me—you have to accept yourself before you can be a full person.

Leza Wainwright, Junior

Most of the contributions to my womanhood are gained through my classes. My professors have done a great deal in helping me realize that women also have the opportunity and responsibility to achieve and contribute to our society.

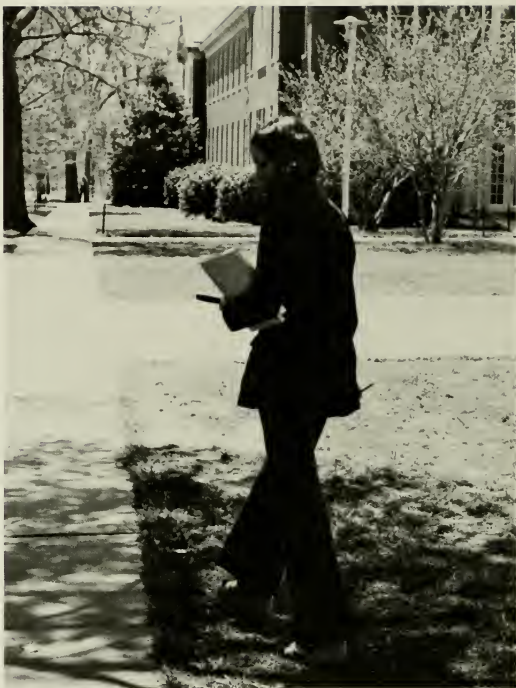

JoAnn Williford, Junior

The environment at Meredith helps you to feel you're a part of the world. Being around other women your age helps you to understand them better as well as yourself.

Kim Dale, Freshman

By word and example, a woman can be both a family person and a professional person. I feel that both roles add to a productive and satisfying person—a mother, a wife, and a professional!

Carolyn Grubbs, Faculty

To be a Woman . . .

I feel a woman must find what she believes in and stand by it and take an active part in doing those things she enjoys and believes in.

Michele Lee, Junior

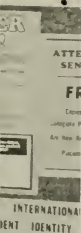

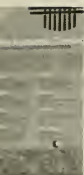

Being a woman, I would say, involves the opportunity of pursuing the quest for developing one's fullest potential as a woman, free from parental, institutional, and male restraints on that development, and free to pursue academic, personal, and social goals.

Bernard Cochran, Faculty

To be a woman means to use all the potentials and unique characteristics a woman has to live a self-fulfilling and a self-directed life.

Marie Mason, Faculty

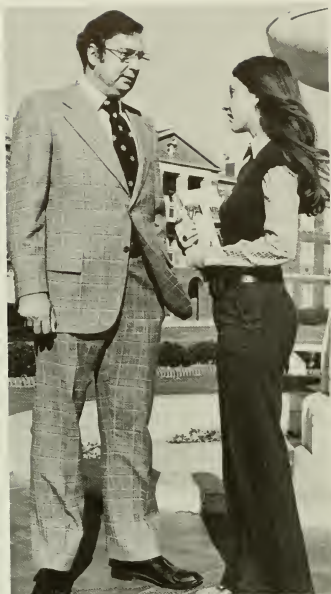

George III's mother supposedly said to him, "George, be a king!" I would say to each Meredith student, "Woman, be somebody!" Sarah McCulloh Lemmon

On our way to becoming women many other people have served as examples and helped us realize our full potential. At Meredith College one of these "helping people" is particularly outstanding. She has helped to raise our consciousness of being women. Named "Woman of the Year" of the city of Raleigh in 1972, she has introduced a special course at Meredith on women's history. She has stimulated our scholarship. She seeks out excellence in her students by refusing to accept from us anything but our best. As a published author who is well respected in historical circles, she serves as an example to us.

But above all she has aided our self-discovery with her love. She always has a cheery hello for us and is never too busy to talk with a student. Her office door is continuously open for a girl with a problem or to anyone who feels like talking. We thank her for helping us to become the women we are, and with gratitude dedicate the 1974 OAK LEAVES to Dr. Sarah McCulloh Lemmon.

Class Day

Graduation

IN APPRECIATION

Mr. Kemp Shields Cate for his loyalty and concern for the well-being of Meredith College which made possible the CATE CENTER.

Mr. Bill Norton—Advisor and Photographer.

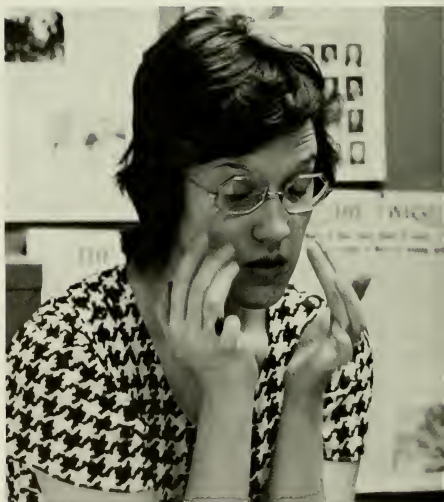

Mrs. Fran Vandiver—Director of Student Activities, friend, fund-finder, and shoulder to cry on.

Mr. Colbert Howell, Photographer

Marylú Flowers, for service beyond the call of duty, hours in the darkroom weekdays, weeknights, weekends, vacations, Class Day.

Eleanor Hill and the TWIG staff for their generosity which made our camera possible.

The OAK LEAVES staff would like to thank every one who helped make this book possible. Any deletions are quite accidental. We regret that some of the clubs in the organizations section had their members names left out, but we could not find a list of these names when we went to press.
